- WHAT: Seminar on Federal and State Laws, Intellectual Property Rights Protections, and Marketing for Alaska Native Artists
- WHEN: Thursday, March 5, 2015, 1:00-3:00PM
- WHERE: University of Alaska – Fairbanks, Native Arts Center, Fine Arts/Theatre Complex, 301 Art Wing
- FOR: All Students, Alaska Native Artists, and Interested Members of the Public

This seminar, held in collaboration with the Native Arts Center and the Festival of Native Arts, will focus on a variety of topics of interest to Alaska Native artists, artisans, businesses, organizations, and collectors, such as copyright and trademark, the Alaska Native Silver Hand Program, and marketing and other business development information. Other topics will include laws governing the production and sale of authentic Alaska Native art, for example the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, Marine Mammal Protection Act, Indian Arts and Crafts Act, Federal Trade Commission Act, and unfair and deceptive marketing and sales practices in Alaska. Presenters will be from the State and Federal sectors and the Alaska Native arts community.

Light refreshments will be served.
